War Record of the Indiana Senator Vindicated.

FIFTIETH CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The [illegible] presented an unusually animated appearance at the opening of today's session, being crowded with spectators principally ladies, drawn by the announcement of a speech at two o'clock by Ingalls in response to Voorhees in effective of last Wednesday.

At the conclusion of the morning business [illegible] to the bill to [illegible] the silver coinage, [illegible] in support of his silver coinage resolution.

At the conclusion of his address the resolution was adopted.

At the hour of two o'clock drew near the doors to the chamber and galleries became marked. Ingalls' desk was decorated with flowers, the tributes of friends at Atlanta, Ga., on the Fourth of July last. Major General Hill, John Porter, now in the army, had wrote a letter, in which he thanked his friends and said that his heart was with them, although at one time his hand and sword had been against them. [illegible] they knew how against [illegible] Senator from Indiana had complained [illegible] had been made to blacken the character of all the great civil as well as military leaders in the late war who remained true to the democratic party. Fitz John Porter had been [illegible] military leaders, who maintained their allegiance to the democratic party and be within the last four months had written that his heart was always with them. Referring to General McClellan, Ingalls spoke of his education at West Point, his business, connection with Beauregard, and his attempt to extend and continue human slavery by the acquisition of Cuba. He spoke of him as having the orders of General Scott, as having abandoned Pope at Centreville, as having failed to put the rebels to the sword at Antietam, as having refused to obey the orders of the President and as having fatally committed blunders, and as having kept the army idle until the battle of the Fredericksburg. He very had pronounced his verdict upon him as a soldier, and the senator from Indiana would not be able to place him in the category with Napoleon, Marlborough, Caesar. He (Ingalls) denied that any one could [illegible] politicians, and said that no one could read his letter to President Lincoln after the disasters, seven days fight on the peninsula and before Richmond, without coming to the conclusion that McClellan was not fully and actively in sympathy with the forces, ideas and sentiments which were then controlling the American people.

As to General Hancock, he was also one of the military leaders who were true to the democracy. His martial career was one of imperishable heritages and triumphs. He piled the abyss of time with names which would be eternal, luminous—the Peninsula, Antietam, Gettysburg, Chancellorsville, Cold Harbor and Petersburg. Had he been a soldier under Napoleon he would have been a prince and marshal of the empire. He had been well called Hancock the Superb. But after the war closed he (like McClellan) had become tainted with the fatal virus of an ambition for the presidential nomination, but notwithstanding his magnificent and unapproachable career the American people recognized his hostility to the reconstruction measures, and in the presidential election of '80 he carried but three northern states—California, Nevada and New Jersey—and the first two of them had been stolen by the forgery and fraud of the Morey letter, issued by democratic politicians. He had also received 138 electoral votes of the solid south which had been promised him in his speech at Cincinnati by the senator from South Carolina (Hampton). He spoke of the affected indignation of the senators from Indiana and Kentucky as discreditable to their intelligence or their candor. If they did not know that he (Ingalls) had spoken of these union generals not as soldiers but as politicians and as democratic candidates for the presidency they were dull, stupid and ignorant indeed. If they did know it and persisted in their assertions they were disingenuous, and he suspected if such a thing were possible that they were both. [Laughter.]

Ingalls, continuing, said: Mr. President—From the impassioned eulogy from the rhapsody of approbation that flowed from the senator from Indiana, at the great military achievements of McClellan and Hancock, I begin to have some doubt who it was that really put down the rebellion. I am driven earnestly to inquire what was the attitude of the democratic party in the north and of the senator from Indiana as one of its great leaders, in 1862, when McClellan, the ideal democrat, was fighting the battle of Antietam; in 1864, when Hancock was hurling back in confusion and disorder the scattered squadrons of the rising democracy. I was really for a moment, Mr. President, inclined to believe that the democratic party of the north and the senator from Indiana and those other great patriots whom he eulogizes as an impregnable bulwark of liberty, of the institution and the union, Mr. Thomas Hendricks and Mr. Horatio Seymour and Mr. A. Richardson, were in full sympathy with Lincoln, with Grant, with Sherman, with Sheridan, with Thomas, with Farragut, with all those who were engaged in that war, who were engaged in that war, who were engaged in the Carmen Campaign, who were engaged in the Cumberland Campaign, who were engaged in the Shenandoah Campaign, who were engaged in the Atlanta Campaign, who were engaged in the Sherman Campaign, who were engaged in the Grant Campaign, who were engaged in the Lincoln Campaign, who were engaged in the Sheridan Campaign, who were engaged in the Thomas Campaign, who were engaged in the Farragut

JOHN CAMPBELL,
Chairman.
J. W. D. STOCKTON,
Secretary.

Every day delegates are elected to the national convention in favor of Judge Gresham. The fact that these are scattering shows want of organization, but also a strong under-current in favor of the distinguished judge.

The passenger department of the Colorado Midland railway is becoming quite famous for the advertising matter it issues. Its folders and hangers have long been noted for attractiveness and good taste. One of the best advertisements issued is the pamphlet on "Cascade canon, a gem of the Rockies." The pamphlet consists of forty-eight pages of well-written descriptive matter filled up with a large number of beautiful illustrations. This pamphlet may be had by application to Charles S. Lee, general passenger agent, Denver, or S. N. Nye, in this city.

We published in yesterday morning's paper a report by the city engineer to the committee on water works of the council. The report does not cover all questions that might be discussed, because it was made only in answer to certain questions. We hope to publish a fuller statement from Mr. Reid on this subject in a few days. In deciding whether a twelve or a sixteen inch main shall be put between our reservoir and the old settler, the question of the difference in expense ought not to weigh, because we have already had enough experience to know that it is very expensive to be economical in our water supply. There are, however, two things to be considered that are of importance. The first is whether there is a sufficient supply of water in Buxton's creek to fill a sixteen-inch main, in addition to the one already laid. There is no need of putting in a pipe larger than we have a water supply for. The second consideration of importance is this: Is as large a pipe necessary at the place of emptying into the reservoir as the pipe that receives the water at the settler? There seems to be a difference of opinion on this subject. If there is water at the settler for a sixteen-inch pipe and if a sixteen-inch pipe at the settler cannot receive more than enough water to fill a twelve-inch pipe where this pipe empties into the reservoir, then it is a useless expense to have a sixteen-inch pipe the whole distance. We suppose this is a matter that can be easily tested.

While the water supply is limited there could be a great saving of water if the city ordinance regarding its use for sprinkling lawns were modified. At the present time most of the sprinkling is permitted in the morning after the sun rises and in the evening before the sun sets. The sun is so hot here that the water evaporates rapidly and the plants receive but a small part of the benefit that should be received. If the rule was such that sprinkling could only be done in the evening much less water would be needed, for, all the water consumed would be absorbed by the plants and it would take the place of an evening dew. If the pressure is sufficient by the help of the new main it would not be necessary to divide the town into districts. If every person in the city could use the water every night between the hours of seven and ten then a good many would not use it regularly. Now, if any person had the right [illegible] Wednesdays he might water on Tuesday because he cannot use it on Wednesday. But if he could use it on Wednesday he might omit using it on Tuesday. The feeling that you can always have water makes one less selfish about using it. It is possible that the pressure is not sufficient for the adoption of such a rule, but it is important that the hours for sprinkling should be changed so that we may get the largest benefit from the water consumed.

PERSONAL.

Work on the Holden shaft was commenced at Pueblo on Monday.

Ethan Allen's name is talked of to the republican state convention has already been elected.

Some of Leadville's business men want a limited amount of gambling allowed in that city.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the annual commencement at the state university.

The city council of Pueblo, with a democratic majority of four, kicked out the present city clerk, W. C. Chenoweth, a republican, by a vote of 10 to 6.

Stock Markets.

NEW YORK, May 1.—Money on call easy, ranging from 2 to 3, closing offered at 2½; prime paper 5 to 6, sterling exchange quiet and weak, 4.86 to 4.86½ for 60 day bills, 4.87½ to 4.88 demand. The stock market was strong though only moderately active to day, and notwithstanding that there was more bear pressure than usual almost all the active list scored fractional gains for the day. The news of the day was if anything favorable and the action of the secretary of the treasury in taking all bonds offered was of considerable influence late in the day in supporting the market against the usual realizations. There was a feverish tone throughout the afternoon. Toward the end of the session a firm tone prevailed. The market finally closed quiet but firm, generally at fractions better than opening figures. The active list is almost invariably higher, and Pacific Mail rose 1½, and St. Paul 1 per cent.

Methodist Conference.

NEW YORK, May 1.—The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church opened to-day this morning in the Metropolitan opera house. Long before the appointed hour the vast auditorium commenced to fill up with ministerial delegates. The bishops occupied seats on the stage. The galleries and boxes were crowded with ladies and gentlemen. Bishop Bowman, senior bishop, presided and conducted the exercises.

The number of ministerial delegates elected is 288, and the number of lay delegates 175. Among the lay delegates are six women. Every state and territory in the union is represented, and there are delegates from Canada, Mexico, China, Japan, Africa, Italy, Germany, Sweden, Norway, Switzerland and India.

David S. Monroe, was elected permanent secretary. Two committees, consisting of one clerical member and one lay member from each district, were appointed and instructed to report to-morrow morning. The leading questions to be settled by the committees are the admission of women as delegates and the admission of delegates from foreign countries.

Ex-Judge Enoch L. Fancher made an address of welcome. Bishop Bowman replied. Bishop Bowman after and presented papers containing the names of contested delegates and those who presented protests. He said he wanted to know the nature of the protests and not have them filtered through the committee. Amendment after amendment was offered, until Bishop Andrews arose and said the bishops wanted the papers to be read openly, and desired that no delicacy be shown in making everything public. The papers were finally read.

STILL A MYSTERY.

The Dark Crime of Edgerton Still a Mystery.

The Coroner's Inquest Elicits No New Facts.

Miss Ellworthy's Testimony Full and Explicit.

Inability to Establish a Motive for the Deed.

The great crime which was brought to light at Edgerton last Sunday morning still remains a dark and bloody mystery. Although Sheriff Jackson and his deputies have been at work ever since the time of the murder, they have discovered absolutely no clue which can furnish even the slightest shadow of a motive for the crime. The coroner's inquest will reveal but little light on the affair, and it is fairly entitled to rank among the mysteries in American criminal annals.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Nellie Ellworthy, the youngest daughter of Mrs. Kearney, accompanied by Mr. W. H. Sharpley, an acquaintance of the family, arrived from Denver. They proceeded immediately to Manitou for the purpose of attending the inquest. Coroner Davis in the morning summoned a jury consisting of Messrs. [illegible] Davis, A. Hutchinson, [illegible] Drs. A. G. Lewis and J. N. Griffith. They visited the cemetery and viewed the bodies of Mrs. Kearney and Jamie Hand, which are still lying in the vault awaiting their final disposition. After making an examination of the bodies Dr. Lewis gave it as his opinion that they had been dead not less than [illegible]

At half past one o'clock the inquest was begun in the council room over the Congress office. The [illegible] out in addition to the coroner and members of the jury, were Sheriff Jackson, Deputy Sheriff Bowers and a corps of reporters.

The first witness called was Mr. W. H. Sharpley, who testified that he knew nothing about the murder except what he had heard; the bodies had been discovered before he had arrived at the ranch on Sunday morning.

Mrs. Fred. C. Hand, being sworn, stated that she resided in St. Louis. She had been accustomed to hear from her mother once a week, but for the past month she had received no letters from her. Mrs. F. C. Hand, who is at present attending the Lyceum School of Acting in New York city, had written her that she had received no word from Mrs. Kearney. [illegible] had written several letters to her without receiving any reply. She greatly feared that something had happened to her, or little Jamie. Miss Ellworthy said that she was not worried in [illegible] Mrs. Hand for she knew that the country in which the ranch was located was frequently visited by heavy storms which caused washouts. This she thought might have prevented Mrs. Kearney from going to the postoffice. The letter which she received from Mrs. Kearney asking her if she knew where Mrs. Kearney had gone, decided her to leave at once for Colorado. She feared that something dreadful had happened, and her fears were only the more intensified when she met Mr. S. K. Harris at Edgerton station on her arrival.

Together they drove up to the house, which was closed, and which presented a deserted appearance. The doors were fastened on the inside. The windows were all closed with the exception of the one on the east side of the house. This window was open. The shutters were broken and the screen had been knocked down on the porch. Forcing one of the doors they entered the house. In a room at the foot of the stairs the bed had been pushed out of the position in which she generally had kept it, and the window was partially closed leaving the curtain flapping. On opening the door of the oven of the kitchen stove Miss Ellworthy discovered a pan of biscuit. Nine more biscuit had been cut out on a board on the table, and a little basket which stood on the table were the half dozen eggs which Mrs. Kearney had brought from the Estes place, and which apparently had not been removed from the place where she had put them after returning to the house. Miss Ellworthy concluded from the eggs not having been used, that the murder was committed on the evening of March, the same day on which Mrs. Kearney and little Jamie had visited Mr. and Mrs. Estes. Her conclusion was based on the fact that they ate eggs at nearly every meal. In a dish pan on the table was a set of dirty dishes of three persons. Among these dishes was a silver mug which the little boy used at meals. On the dining table was another set of dishes which had evidently been used by three persons. She did not believe that Jamie had eaten at this last meal for he would have had his cup.

Miss Ellworthy testified that the house did not look as if it had been ransacked. The furniture appeared to have been undisturbed and nothing had been removed. Leaving the house Miss Ellworthy and Mr. Harris proceeded to the stable. On entering the barn she felt that she was [illegible] Mr. Harris found the stable door open. In the harness room and in the [illegible] he perceived a human form [illegible] on the floor which she knew at once to be her mother. Miss Ellworthy gave the form a [illegible] by the false teeth which her mother wore, which was corroborated by [illegible]

Continuing, Miss Ellworthy testified that the last letter which was written by Mrs. Kearney was mailed by her little son in St. Louis on the Monday after her arrival. This letter accompanied some eggs which she had sent to the [illegible] Mrs. Hand wrote Miss Ellworthy that she had received an Easter egg from little Jamie which he had painted himself and which she greatly prized. Mrs. Kearney always wrote to her sisters about her business affairs. In a letter received some time ago she

THE GAZETTE.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 9, 1888.

The school board of this district yesterday failed to advertise the sale of the bonds voted at the last meeting for a four room addition to the Garfield building.

Considerable activity is now prevailing at Green Mountain Falls. A large force of carpenters and graders are at work, and the T for the railroad is about completed.

One pleasing feature among many others, at the entertainment at the opera house to-morrow evening will be the rendering of some songs simultaneously by the mute and blind children.

Mr. James W. Owens, business manager of Hallen & Hart's "First Prize Ideals" called at the GAZETTE office, last evening. The company appear in the opera house next Monday evening.

Assessor Dowling has begun the work of collecting the tax schedules for the year. His office is open daily for this purpose. His deputies this year are Messrs. A. W. Musser, S. M. Hudson and Frank Cotten.

The citizens of Manitou will have a meeting next Monday afternoon to discuss the proposition to issue bonds for a new school. Increased school room at Manitou is badly needed and the bonds will meet with little opposition.

Sheriff Jackson, the local agent of the Colorado Humane society, yesterday notified one of the express companies doing business in the city that they would have to cease working one of their horses. The animal was afflicted with a very sore shoulder.

Reserved seats are now on sale for Frank Daniels' engagement in Little Puck at the opera house on Saturday evening. Remember that the place of selling the tickets for the opera house has been changed from Bell's drug store to the Midland ticket office at No. 112 East Pike's Peak avenue.

The Woman's Exchange is growing rapidly in favor as a place to get dainty lunches and admirably cooked food. They have paid within the month of April $187.50 to consignors and within the past two weeks over 425 meals have been served. They ask for no consignors of all kinds of woman's work.

Seats are now on sale at the Midland ticket office, No. 112 East Pike's Peak avenue, for the entertainment at the opera house to-morrow evening by the pupils of the Mills and Blind institute. We hope that the entertainment will be liberally patronized, as the object for which it is given is a very worthy one.

A large number of young people are rehearsing for the opera of "Pinafore," which will soon be presented at the opera house. The rehearsals give promise of a very pleasing presentation. It is desired that all young people who have good voices should enter the chorus. Another rehearsal will be held at the Congregational church this evening, beginning at half past eight o'clock.

A very pleasant sociable was given last evening by the ladies of the First Methodist church at the residence of Mrs. S. Sprague on East Huerfano street. A musical and literary programme of an entertaining character was presented, after which refreshments were served and a social time indulged in. The Firemen's band in uniform tendered the company a serenade which was greatly appreciated and substantially acknowledged.

One morning last week a man was found dead in his bed at one of the grading camps on the Rock Island in the vicinity of Granger. The contractors in charge of the camp requested that an inquest should be held in order to determine the cause of the man's death. Accordingly Justice of the Peace E. A. Buck empanelled a jury which rendered a verdict to effect that deceased came to his death by heart disease. The costs of the inquest were paid by the contractors.

The semi-annual election of officers of the Hook and Ladder company took place last evening. The following officers were chosen: Foreman, M. J. Wilson, first assistant, J. W. Chapman, second assistant, Frank Hayman, secretary, O. H. P. Sheffer, treasurer, Phil Strubel. Standing committee, John Jones, F. J. Enquest and William Scott. Sick committee, O. H. Barney. The company has now an active membership of forty-five.

The base ball season in Colorado Springs was opened on the new grounds on North Weber street with a game between the Colorado Springs club and The Pastimes, a local colored nine. The afternoon was quite pleasant, and a large number of spectators witnessed the contest. The game was too one-sided to be interesting. The Colorado Springs club outplayed their opponents at every point though if Castones, the Pastimes' pitcher, had received better support the score might have been closer. The new players in the Colorado Springs club made a very favorable impression. The McMahon brothers will greatly strengthen the nine. Lynch, who played well at third base, is also a strong addition. Hunter, the new centre fielder, is a strong batter and clever base runner. Ferguson pitched a good game and received good support from W. McMahon. The Pastimes went to pieces at critical points in the game and failed to hit Ferguson to any extent. The game was not called until four o'clock. At the close of the nine innings which were played the score stood: Colorado Springs 13, Pastimes 2.

Young Republicans.

A meeting of the Young Men's Republican club was held in Court House hall last evening with quite a number of young republicans in attendance. The meeting was called to order by A. B. Brisbin, temporary chairman, and after the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting the club proceeded to the adoption of a constitution and by-laws. The constitution as adopted states the object of the club to be the advancement of republican principles, the promotion of reform in politics and the cultivation of friendly social intercourse among the members, and provides for the organization of a permanent republican club.

The qualifications for membership are "republicans not less than twenty nor more than thirty-six years of age at the time of their election, who shall pledge themselves to support the republican ticket, and who shall be residents of El Paso county."

The initiation fee is placed at $1, to be paid on signing the constitution, and annual dues $2, subject to the call of the managing committee.

The regular meetings will be held on the second Tuesday of each month and the constitution calls for the election of permanent officers at the first regular meeting which will be held next Tuesday evening. Until that time persons eligible for membership can join the club by calling on Mr. L. H. Goudy, the permanent secretary, and signing the constitution.

After a report from a committee on securing quarters for the club, the books were opened for signatures and quite a number became members.

The meeting was then adjourned.

Insurance Carefully Written in First-Class Companies Only.
Losses Promptly and Satisfactorily Adjusted
STRANGERS, and others not posted in our Real Estate Market, often ask the question, "Where can I best invest my money to be sure of Quick and Profitable returns?"
1st. I would say, select a locality where you have the most SUNSHINE, the finest view of our GRAND MOUNTAIN SCENERY, etc.
2nd. See that you locate where you can enjoy the best WATER ADVANTAGES that our city affords. A home without water in this country is a desert, and when I say BEST WATER ADVANTAGES, I mean not only for irrigating purposes, which is very important, but also for all DOMESTIC PURPOSES. Our water supply at present is limited, and unless greatly increased the time is not at hand, if not already here, when every drop will be needed inside property limits.
3rd. Do not locate where lots are too low in price. Low priced LOTS bring low priced HOUSES, and a PALACE surrounded by shanties will never sell for half its value. Better accomplish other ways and secure a lot that will increase in value.
4th. Don't wait until the "Rush I land" comes, for in 4th is pay 50 per cent more than per cent.
5th. Taste, call and see us and we will convince you that "BOULDER HEIGHTS" possesses all the above advantages.

GRANGER is situated on the line of the Denver, Texas & Gulf R. R., about 18 miles northeast of Colorado Springs, in the center of the best Agricultural District in Colorado. The rainfall is sufficient to perfect good crops, and irrigation is entirely unnecessary. All the available Land within a radius of twenty-five miles has been taken up by bona fide settlers, and improvements are rapidly being made on all the occupied land.
Granger has one of the best Town Sites in the State. It commands an extended view in every direction. The site is almost perfectly level, with a slight fall to the southeast. Water is obtainable within 10 feet of the surface on the entire Town Site. The streets are all 80 feet in width, and the lots are all 50x150, excepting the business lots, which are 25x150 feet. The town lies on both sides of the railroad. The Surveyed Line of THE CHICAGO AND ROCK ISLAND RAILROAD Runs Parallel with that of the DENVER, TEXAS & GULF RAILROAD through the Center of the Town, and forms a Junction with the latter at this point, and will be the Construction Headquarters of Rock Island Extension in Colorado. Granger is destined to become an important town in the near future by reason of its location. It is an Objective Point on the lines of all the Railroads now heading for the Rocky Mountains, and also from the fact that it is located in a Rich and Fertile Region, where good water is reached at a shallow depth. It is an important Shipping point on the D., T. & G. R. R. for a large section of country. In the matter of business handled Granger ranks third on the line of the road.
The lots will be sold on the popular Allotment Plan, as follows:
PRICE: $25.00 Each.
The drawing for location, due notice of which will be given, will occur not later than June 1st next, and will be conducted by a competent committee selected by the certificate holders. The company will include in the drawing every alternate lot in the entire town site as platted, beginning with lot 1 in each block, reserving only numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 18 and 19 in block 1; number 13 in block 2; numbers 1, 21 and 22 in block 11; numbers 17, 18 and 32 in block 12; numbers 15 and 16 in block 21; number 18 in block 22; number 17 in block 31; numbers 1, 2 and 3 in block 41, and block 23.
All those lots have been sold and deeded. The object in reserving thus each alternate lot throughout the entire plat, and selling the other at the low price of $25, when there is not a lot in the entire site but what is well worth $100 (some of the reserved lots above mentioned have been sold at this figure), is to enhance the value of property reserved by inducing the purchasers to build and improve over the entire plat. After the drawing prices will be advanced on lots reserved. Lots will be for sale for only a limited time at the following places:
